The construction of telecommunication installations has been temporarily restricted. Order No. 295, dated 16 September 1952, issued by the State Economic Planning Commission (P.K.P.G.), effective 25 September 1952, introduced the following restrictions:

- a. During the next three years, laying of long-distance inter-urban and district cable lines is to be limited to those strictly necessary. The increased demand for telephones must be met by the installation of portable telephone equipment (urządzenia telefonji nosnej) on existing overhead and cable lines.
- b. Steel cables are to be used exclusively for the construction of overhead telephone lines.
- c. Lines for portable telephones may be made of bronze only, until the introduction of new bi-metal cables.
- d. Poles with station distribution tables must be spaced up to one meter apart, so that the shortest possible sections of cable and wire may be utilized for connections.
- e. Wire with a diameter up to 0.6mm. may only be used for installation cables in subscribers' premises and for switch lines (przelaczenie).
